

CONTENTS

9 BLING! BANG! BOOM! CHINA'S STOCKS ZOOM

Jonathan Anderson, chief Asian economist at UBS, debunks the myth that the bubble in China's equity market poses a concern for economic development in the country.

14 ONE NIGHT IN PATTAYA WITH MR. CLEAN

Colum Murphy, deputy editor of the REVIEW, embarks on a road trip around Thailand with Abhisit Vejjajiva—the man who hopes to be the kingdom's next prime minister.

18 PULLING THE STRINGS OF CHINA'S INTERNET

David Bandurski, a free-lance journalist and scholar at the University of Hong Kong, discovers how China has changed a professional association into an organ of censorship.

22 IS WAL-MART GOOD FOR ASIA?

Greg Rushford, editor of The Rushford Report, an online journal that tracks the politics of trade and diplomacy, weighs the positives and negatives of Wal-Mart's presence on the front lines of global retail.

27 RETAINING THE LOYALTY OF XINJIANG'S HANS

Paul Mozur, a Princeton in Asia fellow at the REVIEW, travels to the remote province of Xinjiang to investigate one of the last remnants of China's old-style planned economy.

31 KOREA INC. LOOKS FOR A NEW CEO

Mike Breen, author of The Koreans and Kim Jong-il: North Korea's Dear Leader, analyzes what Korean voters want and what the country needs from the December elections.

35 POOR VISIBILITY ON CHINA'S AIR POLLUTION

Vaclav Smil, a professor in the Faculty of Environment at the University of Manitoba, turns a critical eye to the hazy policies that have made China a global leader in air pollution.

40 RALLYING FOR RIGHTS IN MALAYSIA

Danny Lim, a free-lance writer and photographer in Kuala Lumpur, breaks down the recent Indian protests in Malaysia and traces the country's changing political dynamics.

43 AUSTRALIA'S RUDD AWAKENING

Hugh White, a professor of strategic studies at the Australian National University, looks to a future with Kevin Rudd at the helm of an Australia with a multitude of domestic and foreign-policy challenges.

47 WINDING DOWN THE MINDANAO WAR

Douglas Bakshian, a free-lance journalist based in the Philippines, examines the steps being made toward bringing peace and stability to the war-torn Mindanao and Sulu Islands.