

10 DEFUSING PAKISTAN'S TRIBAL REBELLION

Shaukat Qadir, a retired brigadier general of the Pakistani Army, warns that failure to understand the Pashtuns will result in the continued use of force to suppress a conflict that cannot be put down by military might alone.

30 THE REBIRTH OF ACEH

Oakley Brooks, a free-lance journalist based in Aceh, says the region has potential for growth in the wake of the 2004 tsunami and the peace agreement between Indonesia and the Free Aceh Movement.

17 PAKISTAN'S LAST BID FOR DEMOCRACY

Colum Murphy, deputy editor of the REVIEW, examines the factors retarding democracy in Pakistan and asserts that now, more than ever, the country's political forces must work together to fight common foes.

34 DEVILS EMERGE FROM INDIA NUCLEAR DEAL

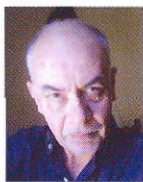

Henry Sokolski, executive director of the Nonproliferation Policy Education Center, looks at the nuclear-technology deal between India and the U.S., and finds the demands on New Delhi could be more than it bargained for.

23 THE FATHER OF TAIWANESE IDENTITY

Hugo Restall, REVIEW editor, meets with Taiwan's former President Lee Teng-hui and finds a man who, even after retirement, tenaciously continues to strive to shape the destiny of Taiwan.

37 SEPTEMBER OF HER DAYS

Justin Wintle, author of Perfect Hostage, a biography of Aung San Suu Kyi, analyzes the role of the beleaguered leader and her puzzling preservation by the junta in the wake of the recent crackdown on protestors.

27 HU JINTAO'S HOLLOW PLEDGES

Willy Lam, a Hong Kong-based scholar and author, examines the 17th Chinese Communist Party Congress, only to discover political maneuvering, hollow rhetoric and very little that will benefit the ordinary people of China.

41 ASIA'S MUCH-NEEDED LOW CARB DIET

Paul Steele and Sergio Feld, environment advisor and environment practice team leader for the UNDP, respectively, examine whether Asian countries will emerge as leaders of the low-carbon revolution.