

J 2 0. 2549

FORTUNE

CONTENTS June 12, 2006 • Vol. 153, No. 10

FIRST

10 The Guiltiest Guys in the Room

The jury didn't have to see Enron's Ken Lay and Jeff Skilling as evildoers to convict them. What the verdicts mean for American business. BY BETHANY MCLEAN AND PETER ELKIND

14 Japan's Hot New Craze: Cold Stone in a Cone U.S. ice cream chain Cold Stone Creamery is scooping up customers in Japan.... BY COREY HAJIM AND CINDY KANO ... 14 Bud vs. Bit Budweiser reportedly paid $40 million to sponsor the World Cup in Germany, but will it outsell hometown brewer Bitburger at the games? BY MICHAEL DUMIAK ...

16 60-Second Briefing What's driving the stock exchange merger binge? BY TELIS DEMOS ... 16 Hollywood, South Pacific-Style German entrepreneur Michael Gleissner is jumping into the movie biz—as a director. BY STEPHANIE N. MEHTA ... 17 The World at Risk ...

14 Beer brawl

DISPATCHES

23 This Year's Model Malcolm Bricklin, the man who brought you the Yugo, is betting that cars from China will rock the U.S.A. BY ALEX TAYLOR III

27 One Brick at a Time Lego's new CEO has a fresh approach to making toys—and money. BY NELSON D. SCHWARTZ

27 There's a block party at once-ailing Lego.

COLUMNISTS

30 Global Economy Doing business in unstable countries, like Nigeria, has made China a target. BY IAN BREMMER

32 Value Driven A study in CEO greed: How an intrepid academic exposed the latest stock option scandal. BY GEOFFREY COLVIN

84 While You Were Out BY STANLEY BING

INVESTING

81 There's Still Zip in Energy Stocks Even with oil prices near record highs, there are some companies with lots of room to run. BY ABRAHM LUSTGARTEN

81 Plenty of gas
83 Commodities: Is the Boom Over? Now is not the time to increase your allocation. BY JON BIRGER

6 Index 8 Letters 19 Picture This

FORTUNE.COM

FORTUNE's online home is the heart of cnnmoney.com, the third-largest business-and-finance site on the web. Here are some of the great stories and columns you'll find there.

Ask Annie

The jobs are out there—find out where in Anne Fisher's weekly careers column, now at its permanent home on fortune.com.

The Browser

A daily blog of truth and rumors from the tech world.

- VONAGE'S dismal IPO could doom its cozy relationship with customers.
- HOW A SPAM FILTER blocked a half-million-dollar telecom proposal.
- MYSPACE is pondering a linkup with Microsoft or Google.

The worldwide reach of open-source teams is explored in our Secrets of Greatness special report.

DAY OF RECKONING

As Enron's execs face sentencing, find out where other corporate criminals have served time, and what former Enron employees have to say. fortune.com/enron