

nursing older people

December 2005 Volume 17 issue 9

www.nursingolderpeople.co.uk

3 Editorial

news

4-5 News

6 News comment – Thelma Agnew

8 News comment – Rebecca Neno feature

10 100 not out

The number of centenarians is increasing steadily. Brian Bone considers the secrets of living for 100 years

gerontological care and practice

14 Ask the experts

Consultant nurses discuss person-centred care

16 'Keeping Well': a local approach to delivering health advice and information

Ann Hunt describes the establishment of a day service provision for older people

20 Dementia services in rural areas: nursing implications

A report on research into the availability of and access to dementia services in rural Scotland

24 Understanding bowel problems in older people: part 2

Lesley Wilson describes how to determine the cause of symptoms and decide treatment and management strategies for patients with bowel problems resources

27 Journal scan, Website watch, Media watch, Book reviews opinion

28 The wrong shoes: living with memory loss

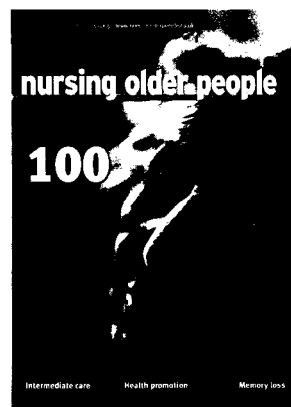

Professor John Keady's inaugural lecture was unusual: his father, Jack, delivered part of it

30 Email interview

Nicky Hayes describes the challenges and opportunities that her role as consultant nurse for older people presents

32 Positive ageing

Former nurse Avis Hutt talks to Hazel Heath about the challenges and advantages of growing old in the 21st century

Centenarians
see page 10