

Contents

February 2015 | Volume 27 | Number 1

Editorial

- 5 Shape of things to come
The physical exercise study that also brings social benefits for patients

News

- 6 Minister urges staff to respond to consultation on physical restraint
7 Project set up to prevent malnutrition in later life

Analysis

- 8 Dementia education to be standardised at degree level
Core topics recommended for inclusion in curriculum
9 Squeeze on social care blamed for delay in discharges from hospital
The NHS is being urged to take measures to free up beds

Opinion

- 10 Book review, Letter, Forum focus Hazel Heath looks ahead to the emerging issues to be discussed at this year's older people's conference
11 Respecting what matters most
Applying a person-centred approach for people with dementia can make a big difference to their care, claims Gill Bailey

Resources

- 12 Diary, Noticeboard
13 Journal scan
14 Practice question: how can I support people to maintain sexual health and intimacy in older age?

Art & science

- 16 Using Skype to support palliative care surveillance
Jacqueline Jones uses a case study to show how families can retain close links with loved ones who are dying
20 Effects of a 12-week community exercise programme on older people
Ricky Wallace and colleagues describe how individuals' attitudes to physical activity were improved by taking part in this intervention
28 Listening to carers' views on stroke services
Anne Marie Tunney and Assumpta Ryan discuss a study that used the experiences of women caring for survivors to assist service redesign
33 Reflections of older people living in nursing homes
Christina Melin-Johansson and colleagues provide an insight into how residents experience ageing

Careers

- 41 Sustaining change
Danielle Woods left behind the drama of working in the emergency department after a mentor encouraged her interest in dementia

Cover image: Getty Images

On the cover

- 16 End of life care
Skype enables relatives to communicate with staff and loved ones at a distance

- 20 Exercise improves quality of life

- 28 Neurological disorders
The importance of support groups for carers of patients who have had a stroke

- 33 Original research
Reflections of older people living in nursing homes

- 9 Delays in discharging older patients have become a growing problem

- 11 Finding out a person's likes and dislikes improves dementia care

- 14 Many interventions are available that support sexual intimacy