FEATURE ARTICLES

- 12 Sign Chi Do and physical function: A pilot study

Carol E. Rogers, Stacey Nseir, and Colleen Keller

A pre-test/post-test single group design was used to test the effect of a 12 week Sign Chi Do exercise intervention on upper body strength, lower body strength, balance, and flexibility.

- 19 Knowledge and injury prevention practices in homes of older adults

Wendy C. Shields, Elise C. Perry, Sarah L. Szanton, Margaret R. Andrews, Rebecca L. Stepnitz, Eileen M. McDonald, and Andrea C. Gielen

This study aims to describe the prevalence of preventive safety measures in homes with older, urban-dwelling adults; determine the relationship between socio-demographic variables and injury prevention measures; and describe older adults' knowledge of safety topics.

- 25 Lower extremity ulceration caused by medical scooter injury: A case series

Pamela Paparone

Health care providers must take an active role in the prevention of motorized mobility scooter (MMS) related injuries, which have been steadily increasing. Clinicians need to actively assist patients in determining if an MMS is the best option for their impaired mobility.

- 30 An innovative approach to preparing nursing students for care of the elderly in the home

Sherrill J. Smith, and Detrice G. Barry

This quasi-experimental study provides nurse educators with evidence for developing geriatric simulation education experiences for preparing new graduates to care for the increasing number of elderly who desire to age in place.

- 35 Psychological, physical, social, and spiritual well-being similarities between Korean older adults and family caregivers

Suk-Sun Kim, R. David Hayward, and Youngmi Kang

This study aims to examine psychological, physical, social, and spiritual well-being similarities among 157 older adult-caregiver dyads in Seoul, Korea.
