FEATURE ARTICLES

- 97 Pressure ulcer prevention in nursing homes: Nurse descriptions of individual and organization level factors

Mary Ellen Dellefield and
Jennifer L. Magnabosco

Given the complexities of performing pressure ulcer prevention (PUP) care, and the variance in knowledge, attitudes, and beliefs that underlie clinical staffs delivery of such care, this study explored individual and organizational factors associated with PUP using both qualitative and quantitative data.

- 105 Reducing depression among community-dwelling older adults using life-story review: A pilot study

Moon Fai Chan, Katherine S.P. Leong, Boon Ling Heng, Blessy Kootappal Mathew, Sher Banu A.L. Khan, Sumathi Sagayamary Lourdusamy, Mina Nagapan, Sook Fan Woo, Wai Yan Chee, Roger C.M. Ho, and Beverley Joan Taylor

A life-story review can serve as an effective intervention to express one's inner feelings and provide emotional catharsis.

- 111 A nurse developed toolkit for long-term care ombudsmen

Natalie R. Baker, Rita A. Jablonski, and Jacqueline A. Moss

Since the majority of state programs rely on a combination of paid and volunteer staff, with most staff lacking formal healthcare training, a clinical toolkit was developed to educate long-term care ombudsmen on common geriatric clinical diagnoses.

- 114 The impact of job stressors on health-related quality of life of nursing assistants in long-term care settings

Yia-Wun Liang, Yenping Hsieh, Yu-Hsiu Lin, and Wen-Yi Chen

This study aimed to investigate the relationship between various job stressors and health-related quality of life among female nursing assistants working in long-term care facilities in Taiwan.

- 120 Examining barriers to self-reporting of elder physical abuse in community-dwelling older adults

Carolyn E. Ziminski Pickering and Veronica F. Rempusheski

The purpose of this study was to describe older adults' perceptions of physical abuse as a type of elder abuse including reasons why they may or may not self report.

126 The relationship between family obligation and religiosity on caregiving

Fayron Epps

The purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between family obligation and religiosity on the positive appraisal of caregiving among African-American, Hispanic and non-Hispanic Caucasian family caregivers of older adults.

132 Empowering certified nurse's aides to improve quality of work life through a team communication program

Erin E. Howe

The purpose of this pilot study was to explore the impact of a certified nurse's aide-led interdisciplinary teamwork and communication intervention on perceived quality of work environment and six-month job intentions.

137 A path analysis of Internet health information seeking behaviors among older adults

Sun Ju Chang and Eun-Ok Im

This study examined the direct and indirect pathways of potential predictors of Internet health information seeking behaviors among older South Korean adults, using the modified Technology Acceptance Model 3.

142 The feasibility of volunteers facilitating personalized activities for nursing home residents with dementia and agitation

Eva S. Van der Ploeg, Helen Walker, and Daniel W. O'Connor

This project explored the implementation of personalized, one-to-one activities by nursing home volunteers to determine if volunteers were able and willing to complete a training program and undertake activities with residents with dementia and challenging behaviors.
