66 The Art and Science of Finding the Right CEO Nothing has a greater impact on a company than its choice of CEO—which is why you need to start the search for a successor as soon as your top executive takes office. A.G. Lafley; foreword by Noel M. Tichy

76 How to Hang On to Your High Potentials A groundbreaking study reveals the cutting-edge practices in programs for managing your most valuable asset. Claudio Fernández-Aráoz, Boris Groysberg, and Nitin Nohria

84 Making Yourself Indispensable To enhance your strengths, develop complementary skills—in the executive equivalent of athletic cross-training. John H. Zenger, Joseph R. Folkman, and Scott K. Edinger
THE BIG IDEA
The Sustainable Economy
Developments on three fronts make it not only possible but inevitable that successful business will become synonymous with sustainable business. Yvon Chouinard, Jib Ellison, and Rick Ridgeway

THE HBR INTERVIEW
Shaking Things Up At Coca-Cola
The company had become ingrown, Kent thought, when he took office. It needed to look outward—and take a long-term view. Coca-Cola CEO Muhtar Kent interviewed by Adi Ignatius

Lean Knowledge Work
The Toyota Production System, which revolutionized manufacturing, has important applications for operations involving judgment and expertise. Bradley R. Staats and David M. Upton

Designing Breakthrough Products
“Technology epiphanies” enable companies to address needs that customers didn’t even know they had. Roberto Verganti

HOW I DID IT
The CEO of Heinz on Powering Growth in Emerging Markets
Heinz expects 20% of its 2011 revenues to come from developing economies. Here’s why. Bill Johnson

THE GLOBE
Have You Restructured For Global Success?
A new structure, the T-shaped country organization, is helping multinational companies tap the full potential of emerging markets. Nirmalya Kumar and Phanish Puranam