Contents

SPOTLIGHT ON MANAGING COMPLEX ORGANIZATIONS

68 Learning to Live with Complexity New strategies and tools to help leaders navigate today’s hyperconnected business world Gökçe Sargut and Rita Gunther McGrath

78 Smart Rules: Six Ways to Get People to Solve Problems Without You Most companies deal with a complex world by creating more processes and coordinating functions—which complicate work more. But there’s a simpler, and far better, approach: Mobilize individual intelligence on the ground. Yves Morieux

88 Embracing Complexity Nature’s solutions to complicated, challenging problems evolve with no leadership or strategic plan. What can managers learn from them? An interview with Legg Mason chief investment strategist Michael J. Mauboussin by Tim Sullivan
THE BIG IDEA

How to Solve the Cost Crisis In Health Care

The real problem in health care is the pervasive lack of understanding of how much it actually costs to deliver patient care. A new approach to costing unlocks a cascade of opportunities, such as process improvement, better organization of care, and new reimbursement approaches, that will accelerate the pace of innovation and value creation.

Robert S. Kaplan and Michael E. Porter

The Higher-Ambition Leader

By driving their companies to excel in three areas—economic value, benefits to society, and organizational culture—a new group of CEOs is achieving remarkable results in the face of daunting challenges. Nathaniel Foote, Russell Eisenstat, and Tobias Fredberg

Global Capitalism at Risk: What Are You Doing About It?

To protect and strengthen the market system, business leaders must become both innovators and activists. Joseph L. Bower, Herman B. Leonard, and Lynn S. Paine

41 HOW I DID IT

EBay’s Founder on Innovating the Business Model of Social Change

Believing that a true philanthropist will use every tool he can, Omidyar structured his charitable organization as if it were a venture capital firm. Pierre Omidyar

The Globe

Finding Great Ideas in Emerging Markets

Multinationals need “global bridgers” who can identify and promote new ideas. Nathan T. Washburn and B. Tom Hunsaker