49 Why U.S. Competitiveness Matters to All of Us
The world wants America to regain its vibrancy. Let’s stop assigning blame and instead focus on solutions. Nitin Nohria

54 The Looming Challenge to U.S. Competitiveness
If leaders react only to the recession and do not address America’s structural challenges, they will revive an economy with weak long-term prospects. Michael E. Porter and Jan W. Rivkin
WORKFORCE
64 A Jobs Compact for America's Future
Badly needed investments in human capital are not being made. What can we do—together—to jump-start the process? Thomas A. Kochan

74 A Warning Sign from Global Companies
Multinationals have long contributed heavily to U.S. competitiveness, but that may be changing. Matthew J. Slaughter and Laura D'Andrea Tyson

76 Rethinking School
For the U.S. to remain competitive, its students need to learn vastly more, much more quickly. New approaches prove they can. Stacey Childress

STRATEGY
80 Choosing the United States
In contests to attract high-value business activities, the U.S. is losing out more than it should. Michael E. Porter and Jan W. Rivkin

94 Does America Really Need Manufacturing?
Yes, when production is closely tied to innovation Gary P. Pisano and Willy C. Shih

104 How to Make Finance Work
The U.S. financial sector has boomed, but that hasn’t always been good news for the rest of the economy. Robin Greenwood and David S. Scharfstein

POLICY
112 Macroeconomic Policy and U.S. Competitiveness
A reformed fiscal policy is vital to renewing America's productivity. Here's a way forward. Richard H.K. Vietor and Matthew Weinzierl

116 Reviving Entrepreneurship
Policy decisions in 12 areas could nurture—or cripple—America's greatest asset. Josh Lerner and William Sahlman

120 Green Rules to Drive Innovation
Charging for carbon can inspire conservation, fuel competition, and enhance competitiveness. Daniel C. Esty and Steve Charnovitz

CONTEXT
124 The Incentive Bubble
Outsourcing pay decisions to financial markets has skewed American executive compensation and, with it, American capitalism. Mihir Desai

134 Fixing What's Wrong with U.S. Politics
Ideological differences helped build America's economic success. But that strength is falling victim to a dangerous trend—politics as war. David A. Moss

140 Enriching the Ecosystem
A four-point plan for linking innovation, enterprises, and jobs Rosabeth Moss Kanter

GLOBE
149 Shattering the Myths About U.S. Trade Policy
Evidence shows that developing economies are not to blame for America's economic problems. Freer trade, not protectionism, may be part of the solution. Robert Z. Lawrence and Lawrence Edwards
From the Editor

Interaction

Idea Watch

25 FIRST
The New Science of Viral Ads
How to make commercials that people will watch and share. PLUS Why bad reviews can be good for sales, and the role of conformists in driving creativity

32 DEFEND YOUR RESEARCH
Hard-to-Read Fonts Promote Better Recall
The surprising effect that smaller, less legible type has on learning

34 VISION STATEMENT
How Early Adoption Has Increased Wealth—Until Now
Technology adoption and per capita income

36 STRATEGIC HUMOR

COLUMNS
38 ERSKINE BOWLES
The danger of doing nothing about budget deficits

40 XU XIAONIAN
How does the U.S. economy look from a Chinese perspective? Pretty good, actually.

43 HOW WE DID IT
The CEO of General Electric on Sparking an American Manufacturing Renewal Why GE rethought outsourcing as a business model. Jeffrey R. Immelt

Build an emotional roller coaster.

page 25

“I don’t do a lot of silly nitpicking.” page 172

The Chinese challenge page 40

Eye trackers and expression scanners show when ad viewers are ready to share. page 25

Experience

154 MANAGING YOURSELF
New Project?
Don’t Analyze—Act
To launch an initiative in uncertain times, take a page from the playbook of successful entrepreneurs. Leonard A. Schlesinger, Charles F. Kiefer, and Paul B. Brown

161 CASE STUDY
When to Make Private News Public
Should a rising star tell her prospective boss that she’s newly pregnant? Tiziana Casciara and Victoria W. Winston

156 SYNTHESIS
Exploring the creative process

168 EXECUTIVE SUMMARIES

172 LIFE’S WORK
James Patterson One of the world’s most popular, prolific novelists discusses creative problem solving, collaboration, and productivity.