SPOTLIGHT ON LEADERSHIP

64 How Managers Become Leaders  Few career transitions are as difficult as the move from running a function to running an entire enterprise for the first time. To rise to the challenge, you’ll need to undergo seven major shifts in your skills and focus. Michael D. Watkins

76 Leadership Is a Conversation  Talking with employees, rather than to them, can promote operational flexibility, employee engagement, and tight strategic alignment. Boris Groysberg and Michael Slind

86 Leadership Development in the Age of the Algorithm  Breakthrough work at Hilton Hotels and other companies shows how organizations can revolutionize their leadership development programs, delivering training uniquely suited to each individual’s style. Marcus Buckingham
THE BIG IDEA
Managing Risks: A New Framework
There is no single best practice. Smart companies match their risk management to the nature of the threats they face. Robert S. Kaplan and Anette Mikes

Pricing to Create Shared Value
Pricing has long been antagonistic, but it can be a collaborative endeavor that engages customers in creating new value. Marco Bertini and John T. Gourville

Four Ways to Fix Banks
Bank boards need simple but powerful tools to cut through complexity and push management toward responsible risk taking. Sallie Krawcheck

THE HBR INTERVIEW
Captain Planet
Here's a business model that aims to contribute to society and the environment instead of taking from them Unilever CEO Paul Polman, interviewed by Adi Ignatius

HOW I DID IT
The CEO of Anglo American on Getting Serious About Safety
The program began with shutting down the world’s largest platinum mine. Cynthia Carroll

THE GLOBE
Reality Check at the Bottom of the Pyramid
Why the low-price, low-margin, high-volume model for doing business with the world's poor doesn't work. Erik Simanis