CNE SERIES CPT Coding Patterns At Nurse-Managed Health Centers: Data from a National Survey 211
Susan C. Vonderheide, Joanne M. Pohl, Clare Tanner, Jamesetta A. Newland, and Dave N. Gans
Assessment of CPT coding patterns is essential to the fiscal management of nurse managed health centers (NMHCs) delivering primary care. Coding patterns are compared using national data for NMHCs, nurse practitioners, and family practice physicians.

Using Innovation to Assess Nursing Workforce in Arizona: A Collaborative Approach 233
Barbara L. Wilson and William G. Johnson
A collaborative and innovative strategy employed by academia, the Center for Health Information and Research, Arizona Hospital and Healthcare Association, and the Arizona Board of Nursing to provide accurate nursing workforce projections and analyses for Arizona is outlined.

Retaining an Aging Nurse Workforce: Perceptions of Human Resource Practices 221
Mary Val Palumbo, Barbara McIntosh, Betty Rambur, and Shelly Naud
Perceptions about retirement are changing. Nurses are indicating a willingness to work longer, and they do not view themselves in the final stage of their careers. It is imperative that health care organizations design human resource policies and practices that support the needs and expectations of a multi-generational workforce.

Estimating the Cost of Professional Developmental Activities In Health Organizations 239
Ida Torunn Bjørk, Solveig Tørstad, Brit Sætre Hansen, and Gro Beate Sændal
Nursing leaders must learn to argue for the use of resources in professional development activities. Providing a total picture of costs involved in an activity is a signal of thoroughness and economic awareness. A model of cost estimation of professional development activities is presented with examples of cost accrued in clinical ladder programs. Utility of a model and challenges in cost estimation are discussed.

An Interview with Thomas W. Champman, EdD, MPH President and Chief Executive For the HSC Foundation 229
Veronica D. Feeg
Dr. Chapman shares his insights on providing health care for families and communities in the Washington, DC, area through the HSC Foundation, exclusive learning groups, and how nurse executives can participate in elite learning groups and boards of directors.

3rd Annual Nursing Faculty/ Nurse Executive Summit Registration Brochure 264
Collaboration: Walking The Talk Register Early and Save!