

2 | 10 QUESTIONS Former American ambassador to the U.N. John Bolton on diplomacy, Iraq and forcing regime change

4 | POSTCARD: GUANGDONG

5 | INBOX

John Bolton The anti-diplomat, page 2

BRIEFING

7 | THE MOMENT French unions strike, but President Nicolas Sarkozy stands firm on reform

8 | DASHBOARD Why Dems are tepid on tax hikes for fund managers; a global ranking of gender equality puts Sweden on top—and the U.S. at No. 31

9 | SPOTLIGHT Burma's junta may seem to be loosening its iron grip, but that doesn't mean it's ready to let go of power

10 | VERBATIM Hugo Chávez gets an earful from the King of Spain; Yao Ming gives props to a fellow Chinese NBA star

12 | MILESTONES

COMMENTARY

15 | MICHAEL KINSLEY Mitt Romney says consultants can make government more efficient. But should the U.S. really be run like a corporation?

Norman Mailer A literary pugilist at rest, page 12

PAGE 2 | 7 | 15 | 16 | 29 | 39 | 51 | 60

Lady in waiting Benazir Bhutto fights back, page 20

On a roll A factory worker in booming Mauritius, page 32

On the cover: Photo-illustration by Nilanjan Das. Briefcase: Stockbyte Silver—Getty Images; Map: Reto Stockli—NASA Earth Observatory. Insets, from left: Rahat Dar—EPA; Mark Nolan—Getty Images

THE WELL

16 | U.S.: RUDY GIULIANI
Defining Moment
How much does Giuliani value loyalty? The way he chose New York City's top law enforcers gives clues

20 | ASIA
Pakistan on the Rocks
Benazir Bhutto's nasty political breakup with Pervez Musharraf presages further chaos

24 | AUSTRALIA
A Sunburned Country
Drought caused by global warming is changing the political climate Down Under

26 | MIDDLE EAST
Squeezing Tehran
The U.S. is hoping new economic sanctions will convince Iran to abandon its nuclear ambitions

COVER STORY

29 | WORLD ECONOMIC FORUM
A new survey examines why nations succeed or suffer

32 | AFRICA
A continent booms—in places

34 | DENMARK
The Danish solution to globalization

36 | LATIN AMERICA
Rebounding from a financial crisis

38 | CHINA
Global drug companies find a petri dish for new products

LIFE

39 | SOCIETY
Stay-at-home dads are proving that being more of a father doesn't make you less of a man

ARTS

51 | THEATER
The playwright who could have become Shakespeare

54 | MOVIES
Hollywood takes on the Iraq war, but American audiences tune out

55 | BOOKS
A classic Indian epic debuts in English

Gary Taylor Bringing the world a new Bard, page 51

60 | ESSAY
Evidence that cancer can be prevented is growing, but unhealthy habits die hard