140 CE Using Reflective Nursing Practice to Improve Care of Women With Congenital Heart Disease Considering Pregnancy

Do you understand reflective nursing practice? When faced with the care of women considering pregnancy who had CHD, these nurses could find no evidence in the literature. They proceeded scientifically, however, to learn all they could about how to care for these women.

Kelley Kilpatrick, MSc(A), RN, and Margaret Purden, PhD, RN

150 CE Human Milk Donation: What Do You Know About It?

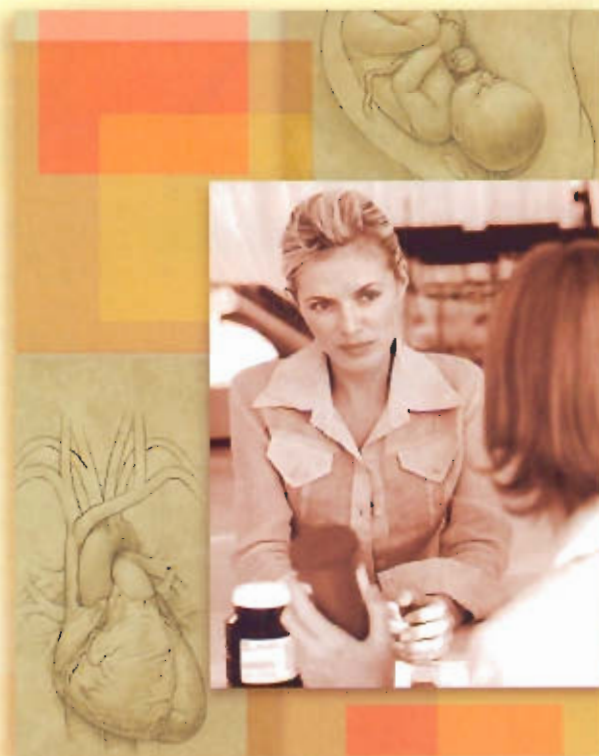

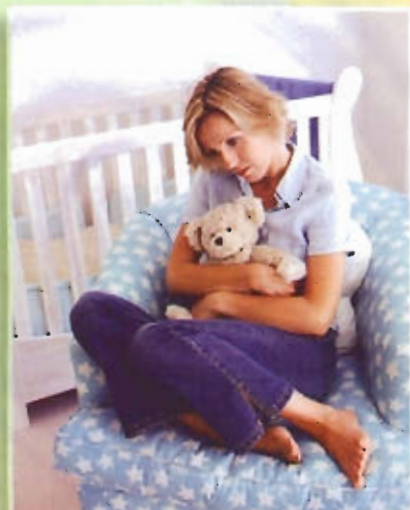

Have you seen auctions for breast milk on the Internet? Should women share their breast milk? What is a regulated human milk bank? All nurses who care for women should know about this.

Katie Woo, BSN, RN, and Diane Spatz, PhD, RNC

158 Getting Through Birth in One Piece: Protecting the Perineum

Are there things that nurses can do to help prevent episiotomy or perineal laceration? This research suggests there are.

Marie Hastings-Tolsma, PhD, CNM, Deborah Vincent, PhD, RN, FAANP, Cathy Emcis, MS, CNM, and Teresa Francisco, MS, RN

165 Using a Focus Group to Determine Car Seat Use Among Mothers of Children Aged 3 to 7 Years

Child car seats seem to be a difficult problem for parents today. What are women saying about why they use them and why they don't?

Barbara Medoff-Cooper, PhD, RN, FAAN, and Lorraine Tulman, DNSc, RN, FAAN

170 Dutch Women's Perceptions of Childbirth in the Netherlands

Oh yes, things are done differently in the Netherlands regarding childbirth. We can learn a lot from what happens in other countries.

Taralyn R. Johnson, MSN, RN, Lynn Clark Callister, PhD, RN, FAAN, Donna S. Freeborn, MSN, FNP, CNM, Renea L. Beckstrand, PhD, RN, CCRN, and Katinka Huender, Dutch Midwife

178 Family Attitudes About Tobacco Smoke Exposure of Young Children at Home

Do families allow others to smoke in their homes, even if they don't smoke themselves? How do people choose to have a smoke-free home for their children? The answers will help you to educate parents.

Yvonne Yousey, PhD, RN, CPNP

184 Women's Experience With Social Presence During Childbirth

Family-centered care is practiced in some institutions but not in all. What do women have to say about who they want with them in labor?

Sheri Price, MN, RN, Jennifer Noseworthy, BSN, and Juliet Thornton, MN, RN
